

Democrats Threaten to Rest Control of Senate From G.O.P.

EVEN OR MORE LOSSES OF SEATS SEEM CERTAIN

Number of States Still in Doubt; Smith Is Winner in Illinois; Republicans Hold House

George E. Brennan, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, was 58,000 votes in front of Frank L. Smith, Republican, in the Illinois contest for the Senate, but most of the returns were from Cook county, a Brennan stronghold, and Smith's friends said the lead there would be more than offset by the down-State vote.

DEMOCRATS HOPE

Although the Democrats had gained only two seats in the new House out of the 213, Chairman Oldfield of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, was asserting that the new Congress will be Democratic.

Besides the returns from the solid South, where the Democrats had a serious opposition in only a few instances, the 213 contests decided included the large majority of the House seats in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois.

In addition to the two seats thus far gained from the Republicans, the Democrats will need thirty-four more to get control of the House. They have to win nine of the Senate contests to obtain a clear majority in that branch of Congress.

At present the Democrats are the two Senators in Indiana was forecast by the midnight returns, with Senator Watson, Republican, leading Albert Stump, Democrat, by approximately 10,000 with one-eighth of the State accounted for. Senator Robinson was 8,000 ahead of his Democratic opponent, Elmer Woolstenhulme.

In Oklahoma, Elmer Thomas had picked up a lead of 8,000 over Senator Harold, Republican, with about one-third of the State reported, while in Kentucky, Albin W. Barkley was approximately 1,000 ahead of Senator Brant, Republican, on the face of incomplete returns from forty-three out of the State's 120 counties.

Following are returns from various counties of California on contests for State and local offices:

KERN COUNTY

At a late hour last night J. W. Mahan, incumbent for thirty years, was defeated by James L. Lamborn, a close race for election to the Superior Court bench in Kern county. Incomplete returns from sixty precincts out of the county's 118 reported.

VENTURA COUNTY

With no contests for county office on the ballot here, voters cast their ballots on the vote on a proposed $900,000 bond issue for improvement of county highways. Twenty-eight precincts out of the county's 118 reported.

KINGS COUNTY

None of the three contests in Kings county is determined by the vote from the first five precincts. In the first figures available W. H. Hine, for Sheriff, had 313 votes and Francis Long, 287. For Superintendent of Schools Miss M. L. Richmond had 313. Mrs. E. L. Bensen had 311. A. P. Long, 287. For County Clerk, J. P. Dapron, had 303.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY

Early returns from sixteen widely scattered precincts out of a total of 307 in San Diego county indicated that C. N. Andrews, Charles B. DeLong and Spencer M. Marsh will succeed in the election of judges to the County judgeships. The count was: C. N. Andrews, 499; Charles B. DeLong, 494; Spencer M. Marsh, 494.

NEW HAVEN (CT.) Nov. 2. (P)—United States Senator Hiram Bingham and Gov. John H. Trumbull were re-elected in a sweeping Republican victory in Connecticut today. With them they carried the entire State ticket.

NORTH AGAINST SOUTH IN VOTING

voted as did the northern counties, although with smaller majorities for the Federal reorganization plan.

In several Southern California counties the Federal reorganization plan apparently carried by a narrow margin and Proposition No. 20 was in doubt.

Returns on the five Los Angeles county propositions and on the twenty-five city propositions were slow in arriving, but early morning returns indicated that the city ordinance restricting dogs to owners' premises and on leash when not on the premises had been defeated. The returns on this measure (Proposition 17-A) from the first few city precincts counted showed a lead for "no" votes on this ordinance and this lead was increased as the returns came in.

On city Proposition 8-A, to prohibit the employment of aliens on municipal work, including street paving, sewers, etc., early returns showed a lead for the measure.

Of the five county propositions, chief interest centered in the $25,000,000 bond issue for the improvement of the county's highways. The vote on this bond issue was close, with precincts in the outlying sections of the county favoring the measure, and others in the city opposed. Pasadena was voting a majority against the bond.

Early returns on the $25,000,000 county bond control bonds from Inglewood were: Yes 64, No 36. From Hawthorne, the first returns on the bond control bonds were: Yes 268, No 428.

Sierra Madre showed a favorable majority, the incomplete returns being: Yes 428, No 308.

Ten out of twelve precincts at Compton showed 1310 votes for the bonds to 289 opposed.

Reports from Santa Monica, Venice section of Los Angeles, and Culver City were to the effect that bond control bonds had carried in this Santa Monica Bay section of the county.

BOND ISSUES WIN

Early returns on the county and city propositions indicate that $25,000,000 county parks and playgrounds bonds, the $5,000,000 county civic center bonds, the $5,000,000 county grade crossing elimination bonds would carry, and that the county charter amendments increasing the number of Supervisors from five to seven members had been approved.

Of the twenty-five city propositions the early returns indicate that 8-A, the charter amendment reducing the number of election officers at polling places in the interest of economy would be approved; that the 9-cent tax for five years to be used for contributions to Major Traffic Street Plan improvements had been adopted; and that the $250,000 Receiving Hospital bonds had been authorized. The vote on the $1,500,000 playground bonds, and on the $2,500,000 fire department bonds was close. Early figures on each barely gave the measure a two-thirds vote needed to authorize the issue.

An exceptionally heavy vote was cast throughout California yesterday on the county propositions.

County Registrar of Voters Kerr stated that he believed the heavy balloting was due to the interest shown by women in retaining the Wright Act.

Mr. Kerr received many calls throughout the day for additional voting booths and ballot boxes, indicating an unexpectedly heavy vote. However, due to the length and complexity of yesterday's ballot, many voters were forced to wait in line to cast their ballots.

In Santa Monica several of the precincts reported that the number of votes cast was considerably more than at the August primaries. Long Beach cast more than half of its registered voters, according to reports. Clifton was being displayed there in the contest in the First Supervisorial District, where Supervisor Cogswell is opposed by Fred T. Best.

Spirited voting was reported in Pasadena, where more than 80 per cent of the registered electors went to the polls. Interest was added there by the presence of several important municipal propositions.

The city of Los Angeles combined a special election with the general election and proposed amendments to the city charter, four bond issues and one repeals vote.

No reports of violence or disorder were received. It was clear that the election was being held in a quiet manner.

Early returns gave Willard Badham, Republican, a lead over Titus Alexander, Democrat, and Charles Frederickson, Socialist, in the Seventy-second Assembly District.

The re-election of Congressman Free, Republican, in the Eighth Congressional District over Shesby, Democrat, seemed assured last night. Sixty-four precincts in Santa Clara county gave Free 1338, Shesby, 851.

R. NORRIS MURD TO BE SHIFTED

Texas Judge Holds P Not Get Impartial Date in January

FORT WORTH (Tex.) Nov. 2. — The murder trial of its leading witness, Judge Hoseney, of Criminal District Court, today witnesses testify that Rev. J. H. Hoseney, a fair and impartial trial on the part of the murder of Dexter Elliott, was granted the pastor a change of venue, the Texas capital, for the trial. Hoseney was shot to death in the body of the First Baptist Church last summer.

Some of the witnesses said they had heard the belief expressed that Hoseney's neck should be broken and that he should be shot. The Mayor of Fort Worth, H. G. Mescham, testified he had hired special prosecutors to a $10,000 fee to prosecute Norris, killing his friend, Chipps. The evidence was heard on Norris's case that a combination of politics and religion, of the city administration and Roman Catholics, had been formed to prosecute him, all of the

DR. NORRIS MURDER TRIAL TO BE SHIFTED TO AUSTIN

Texas Judge Holds Pastor Would Not Get Impartial Hearing; Date in January Likely

FORT WORTH (Tex.) Nov. 2. (AP)—Fort Worth today held the murder trial of its leading fundamentalist pastor, Dr. J. Frank Norris, of Criminal District Court, after hearing about twenty witnesses testify that Rev. J. Frank Norris could not obtain a fair and impartial trial on the indictment charging him with the murder of Dexter Elliott Chipps, lumberman, deposed to grant the pastor a change of venue. He selected Austin, the Texas capital, for the trial city.

Dr. Norris was shot to death in the testimony concerning the question of widespread fixed opinions in the case. The judge announced after noon recess that the defense had established its case on the change of venue and that he did not wish to hear any more evidence on the questions.

PROSECUTION PROTESTS

Prosecution attorneys vigorously protested that they should be heard on the "combination" charge, and intimated that they wished to defend Mayor Mescham and the citizenship of Tarrant county, as they stated the impression had been left that the citizenship is not fair minded, but

The first radio telephone was introduced today with great success through the new municipal radio distribution service by telephone, which commenced operation on a commercial basis. There are more than 1000 subscribers.

The judge declined to reverse his stand.

The date of the trial at Austin is not yet known, as the case must be set for the January term. The next step is to transfer the papers to the Austin court and certify that the change of venue has been placed in that county.

Dr. Norris was elated at the turn of the case, characterizing his application for change of venue as "a bombshell" to the prosecution, and declaring that the state "now hasn't a leg to stand on; the case is all over." He said any county but Tarrant would suit him.

One of the weighty considerations in the judge's decision was the response of prospective jurors to the judge's questions as to how many of them had formed opinions. About 80 per cent of the veniremen held up their hands, and when the judge asked how many did not have a fixed opinion only a few put up their hands.

This crowd is already hoisted on their own petard," said Norris. "They came here thinking they were going to show a lot of things against me, but our change of venue was a bombshell. It was the only way to uncover this conspiracy against me and

Princess Tries on Gown and Bakes Wedding Cake

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 2. (AP)—Official ceremonies in honor of the coming marriage of Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium and Princess Astrid of Sweden began today with the arrival of King Albert of Belgium and Queen Elisabeth in Stockholm.

The Belgian royal family, which had been joined by Prince Leopold at a way station fifteen miles from the capital, received a rousing greeting.

King Gustavus, the Duke of Vastergotland, the father of Princess Astrid, and the Princess herself received the King and Queen of Belgium warmly. King Gustavus hurried to embrace and kiss King Albert on both cheeks, while Queen Elisabeth tenderly kissed Princess Astrid as Prince Leopold stood by. The two royal families had an informal luncheon at the royal castle.

formal luncheon at the royal castle. Later King Albert received the various diplomats stationed in the city. The day's festivities ended with a gala dinner at the palace in honor of the Belgian sovereigns. Five hundred guests were invited, among them all the royalties here, the diplomatic representatives and heads of foreign missions.

King Gustavus, in a speech toasting the visitors, expressed great pleasure at the coming marriage, which will draw closer the two royal houses and develop the good relations between the two countries.

The King of the Belgians responded in the same complimentary measure, recalling the past glories of Swedish history and culture.

BAKES CAKE FOR HIM

Princess Astrid had a busy day in preparation for Thursday's civil ceremony. She tried on her wedding gown and found that it fitted perfectly. Later she went to the kitchen of her home, which is an apartment of the type familiar to Americans, and baked a chocolate frosted cake which will be served at a royal dinner tomorrow. The cake was made especially for Prince Leopold, who will be 25 years of age tomorrow.

Wedding gifts have been arriving steadily at the royal palace, where the wedding ceremony will be conducted.

Astrid, although niece of the King of Sweden, virtually will move from apartment to palace by her marriage to Leopold. The home of her parents, the Duke and Duchess of Vastergotland, in which she and her sisters have lived since childhood, is a palace of the type familiar to Americans.

The 20-year-old Princess, who is known throughout Sweden as the personification of modesty, has been overwhelmed by the brilliant preparations for the wedding, and the time which has generally been made over the event.

Both she and Leopold have been avoiding the public gaze as much as possible, only leaving the apartment for short walks or to attend informal functions.

RIGID FORMALISM OF OLD DAYS SCRAPPED

BRUSSELS, Nov. 2. (AP)—The task of making the wedding ceremony of Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid democratic was the chief problem of the King of the Belgians and the Duke of Vastergotland, father of the bride, in arranging the program of the coming nuptials.

King Albert, ruling over a country where the Socialists are a formidable force, and the Duke of Vastergotland, representing Sweden, which for many years was ruled by a Socialist government, were both anxious to avoid any criticism from that quarter.

They were appalled when they took cognizance of the rigid protocol governing royal marriages in Belgium. The precedent dated back to the wedding of Leopold II and Archduchess Marie Henriette of Austria.

SIMPLIFIED PLANS

The bride was then received solemnly at Verviers, the frontier town, where a special "exteriorized salon" had been erected. It was a "diplomatically neutralized" strip of territory that the title of Duchess of Brabant was conferred upon the Austrian Archduchess. She was then officially and "against due receipt" handed over to the Belgian authorities.

The "diplomatic marriage" already had taken place by proxy in the chapel at Schoenbrunn.

King Albert decided to do away with the 1822 protocol. That would necessitate the coming of Princess Astrid overland, crossing Denmark and Germany, with official greetings at the frontier by the civil and military authorities of both countries.

"They can come by boat," said King Albert.

"Sweden will provide a cruiser," agreed the Duke.

"Perfect," said King Albert, and the entire matter was thus simplified.

November's rainy weather—the "Drache Nationale" as the natives call it—is said to hold no terror for Princess Astrid.

"Happy the bride whose nuptial bouquet is wet from the rain," is an old Swedish saying. The daughter of the Vikings likely will be greeted by raindrops when she and her husband, united by civil ceremony in Stockholm next Thursday, return to Brussels later for the religious ceremonies. Records show that during the last ten years there has been rain in Brussels or twenty days out of the thirty each November.

Another Swedish proverb recommends that the bride insert into her wedding gown some branches of an aromatic plant, to protect her against the evil mountain spirits. Belgium is a flat country. Its highest mountain, U. S., is called a hill in Astrid's native Sweden.

BOBBED LOCKS LOSING GROUND

Long Hair Again in Favor of Social Leaders

Opera Opening Brings Color Symphony in Dress

Debutantes There in Frocks of Rainbow Hues

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (P)—Bobbed hair apparently has lost caste in the four hundred. Long, wavy locks on the heads of debutantes and matrons in the Diamond Horseshoe were noted in the opening of the Metropolitan opera season last night. White satin, velvet and georgette, accented with pearls and diamonds, formed the overtones of the color symphony in dress.

Mrs. Harry C. Cushing, formerly Cushman Vanderbilt, dressed in close fitting white georgette, wore a soft white turban of pearls and diamonds. Her cloak was heavily brocaded with black satin, collared with brown mink, and colored with large embroidered flowers.

Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, wore a white satin dress whose draped folds were caught with pearls. Three long strands of pearls were caught by a diamond clasp at the back, and hung to her waist. A black velvet, sleeveless evening cloak, completed the costume.

Mrs. E. Gary wore white satin, silver slippers and a diamond bracelet.

A profusion of feathers, in brilliant colors, waved in the fans of the Diamond Horseshoe as well as from the dresses and cloaks. Brocade cloaks of black and gold, and ermine coats predominated, while velvet coats lent color to the array. One wrap of copper velvet, had a heavily beaded collar that hung, monklike, behind, and another of black velvet, with a diamond clasp at the back, and hung to her waist. A black velvet, sleeveless evening cloak, completed the costume.

One wrap of copper velvet, had a heavily beaded collar that hung, monklike, behind, and another of black velvet, with a diamond clasp at the back, and hung to her waist. A black velvet, sleeveless evening cloak, completed the costume.

Widow Will Come Before Court This Morning

Legal Technicalities May Force Postponement

State Ready for Evidence After Four Years

BONNEVILLE (N. J.) Nov. 2. (AP)—On the eve of the first trial in the 10-year-old Hall-Mills death mystery, the two judges who are to preside at the trial tomorrow are still undecided whether legal impediments will cause a postponement until the next term of court.

The question puzzling the two judges is the outgrowth of the demand by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson for a "struck" jury. Several weeks ago, at Simpson's request, the formalities of selecting a "struck" jury were fulfilled. The result was the selection of a panel of thirty-two men chosen by a theoretical intelligence test. At that time Judge Cherry and Justice Parker conferred and permitted the defense and the state to challenge prospective jurors.

Justice Parker then said the state allowed only five challenges for each side in the final selection of the jury. The selection begins tomorrow, but it was learned that with the panel reduced to twenty-eight by the striking out of the names of eight persons dead or removed from the state—there had arisen the danger of exhausting the special panel without getting a jury.

The trial tomorrow finds Mrs. Francis Stevens Hall and her brother, Henry Stevens, defending themselves against the charge of murdering Mrs. Eleanor H. Mills, co-pastor of the church of St. John the Evangelist in New Brunswick, and Mrs. Hall's husband, Rev. Edward Wheeler Stevens, 18 years his senior, in 1911, when he was 31.

Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, in New Brunswick, N. J., was slain with Mrs. Mills September 14, 1922, and their bodies were found two days later. There was a hole in his head. He married Mrs. Stevens, 18 years his senior, in 1911, when he was 31.

QUICK WATSON! ANSWER THIS

Do Three Hot Dogs and Bottle of Beer Make One Intoxicated?

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2. (AP)—Can three hot-dog sandwiches and a bottle of beer produce intoxication?

Behind locked doors a jury in Criminal Court here today deliberated that question in case of Daniel B. Dodd, 26 years of age, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated.

A city physician said Dodd was drunk at the time. The defendant denied the charge—unless, he said, "one bottle of beer and three hot-dog sandwiches could intoxicate me. And I am sure they did not."

The answer to the perplexing question probably will be known tomorrow. Should the jury reach a verdict today, a court holiday. It will be brought in tomorrow.

At Lavallette, N. J., several years ago to devote his time to hunting and fishing. He asserts, as an alibi, that he was fishing on the night of the murders. He was arrested last September and indicted by the same grand jury that indicted his sister.

Willie Stevens, Mr. brother and ward of Mrs. Hall, until his arrest and indictment devoted most of his time to being an honorary fireman in New Brunswick. He inherited $200,000 and lived with his sister. Fingerprints said to be his were found on a card at the feet of Mr. Hall.

Henry De la Bruyere Carpenter, a cousin of Mrs. Hall, built a fortune of $150,000 as a Wall-street broker. He says he was at dinner with friends on the night of the murder. He was indicted with his cousin, but is due for trial later.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's chief witness, was formerly a circus rider and now raises pigs. She professes to have witnessed the murder while riding a mule in search of corn thieves.

Ralph V. M. Corline, vestryman in Dr. Hall's church, was with Miss Catherine Bastall, a member of the choir, led by Mrs. Mills, in Dr. Stevens' Lane, near the scene of the murder, when it was committed. Their presence in the lane was not revealed until four years after the crime.

James Mills, husband of the murdered choir singer, denies that he knew of his wife's love affair. His daughter, Charlotte, was in high school four years ago, and is now working.

RADIO STATION NOT TO BROADCAST TRIAL
NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (AP)—Radio station WNYC announced tonight it will not broadcast the Hall-Mills murder trial, which opens tomorrow morning in Bonnevill, N. J.

Charles D. Isaacson said "some influential people thought it was a bad thing to do, and we decided there was enough public opinion against it to warrant abandoning the plan."

You need not wait for weeks, or perhaps months, for its appearance in the lower-priced NEW FORM. For this NEW FORM Britannica is ready NOW. In many respects this is the most attractive, compact and convenient form in which the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA has ever been published.

The contents are identical with the contents of the higher-priced Cambridge issue. The type is large and easy to read. The paper is thin, yet opaque, tough and durable. Each page measures 8 1/2 x 10 1/2 inches. Each double volume is about 2 1/2 inches thick—a most convenient size for easy handling.

How You Save 40%

The amazingly low price of the Britannica in the NEW FORM is made possible because:

(1) It is printed from the same plates used for the famous Cambridge issue. This makes it possible to save thousands of dollars, because we do not have to reset 33,000 pages of type.

(2) By having the paper-made to order in immense quantities, and binding the 32 volumes as 16 (2 vols. in 1 cover), additional substantial savings are effected in the cost of production.

A Vital Necessity

It records the sweeping changes of the last 16 years—those transforming years whereafter nothing in the world can ever be the same again.

In the 33,000 pages contained within its 32 volumes, are 45,000 separate articles (50,000,000 words) contributed by more than 2,500 authorities, including the foremost living celebrities from every civilized country under the sun.

Only in these pages can you find the full, authentic record of every important development—commercial, industrial, scientific, financial, professional and social.

You Can Afford It

In order to place this universal guide and counsellor within easy reach of every home it has been published in two forms—the famous Cambridge issue (32 vols.) printed on beautiful India paper, and the popular NEW FORM (16 double vols.) printed on the sturdy Britannica Opacity paper, and selling at nearly half the price.

Very Easy Terms

Now YOU can realize your life-long ambition to own the Britannica—AND you can have it in 16 large, richly-bound volumes, at a trifle more than half the price of the famous Cambridge issue.

But that isn't all. You can buy it on Easy Terms of Payment that will meet the limitations of the most modest family budget.

For an initial payment of only $5—you can put the leaders of world thought to work for your advancement now—AT ONCE. But you will have to act quickly, as these sets are selling rapidly and the quantity is limited.

TOMB OF TUT YIELDS RELICS

New Finds Add Knowledge of Funeral Rites

Ship Replicas for Moving
Body Discovered

Statutes Depict Conception of After-Life

CAIRO (Egypt) Nov. 2. (P)—Funeral relics of great historical importance have been found in the third chamber of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the Valley of the Kings, the newspaper Sinneh has learned.

Work recently was renewed on the task of fully exploring the Egyptian tomb and the finds, although not so rich as those found in the first two chambers, are considered of great value because they represent everything used at ancient Egyptian funeral ceremonies.

Thirty small boats of two kinds were found, one type representing those used for transporting funeral corteges from Luxor across the River Nile to the tombs, while the other was for the transport of the body from earth to heaven.

A box containing small statues also was found. These statues had the head of the youthful King Tut-Ankh-Amen, but the body of a bird or animal, giving the Egyptian conception of after-life. Two chariots also were found. These differed from the one previously discovered in that they did not contain the lavish ornamentation of the first one. It is believed that they were used for hunting. They are the first of their kind to be discovered.

Work on the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, which has been in progress for several years under the direction of Howard Carter, well-known explorer and Egyptologist, has added extensively to modern knowledge of the customs and history of ancient Egypt. The body of the young king was found within a magnificent sarcophagus which contained two inner coffins. The innermost coffin is of solid gold, magnificently engraved both inside and out and embellished with precious stones. Mr. Carter expressed the opinion that it is among the world's finest works of art.

Brothers Glad Cunniffe's Life of Crime Ended

DETROIT, Nov. 2. (P)—James P. "Killer" Cunniffe and William Olsen, gunmen killed in a shooting affray here early Sunday, were identified today by Cunniffe's brothers Thomas and Daniel, on their arrival from New York City.

Olsen, they said, was known to them as Thomas Connolly with whom James Cunniffe grew up. They were unable, however, to identify the woman found dead in the apartment with Cunniffe.

"They were tough as boys and they were tougher as men," the brothers said of the dead men. "James is better dead. All his life he brought disgrace to the family. Mother is 68 years of age and the shame of his crimes was almost more than she could bear."

Snake King Wins Damage Award From Railroad

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) Nov. 2. (P)—Because a freight conductor classified a car of snakes, monkeys and tigers as "reptiles" and looked the car behind the caboose, where he said they would not molest the train crew, a railroad company has been compelled by the courts to pay W. A. "Snake" King of Brownsville $800 damages on two snakes, three monkeys and one tiger, which failed to survive the ordeal of "popping the whip" at the end of a long freight train.

King, who operates a snake and wild-animal farm near here, had billed the conductor as "animals," which the conductor insisted applied only to horses, cows and other domestic live stock.

HAS YOUR MOTOR-CAR THIS "MARGIN OF SAFETY"?

IT ISN'T likely that you'd ever drive your car so fast around a curve that the outer wheels would crumple. But wheels might crumple or steering knuckle break if you had to turn suddenly and sharply, to avoid a collision or running down a pedestrian. A smash-up... perhaps worse!

The steering knuckle of the Rolls-Royce is expensive to make and test. The test pieces forged as a part of each knuckle cost a good deal more than the knuckle itself. But the knuckle cannot fail, ever. Rolls-Royce wheels have an enormously wide hub which provides wide lateral spoking to care for the enormous outward push in rounding curves. No crumpling in the emergency.

Such margins of safety are built into every part of this car. The brake drums are carved, so to speak, out of a piece of steel weighing more than three times the weight of the finished product. Brakes have never been known to burn or fail; and they will stop the car, dead, from 60 miles an hour in the distance between two telegraph poles. An eighth-inch outer "skin" is machined from the connecting rod forgings. Perfect flawless metal is the result. Consequently, the Rolls-Royce is good for 20 years of service and carries an absolute 3-year guarantee against failure of any mechanical part.

Should you like to ride in a Rolls-Royce, a 100-mile trial trip will be arranged over any roads at any time.

PLANES BOMB YAQUI VILLAGE

Explosive Bullets Rain Upon
Mountain Stronghold

Sky Attack Demoralizing to Defiant Tribesmen

Ancient Tribal Capital Now
Practically Deserted

QUATMAS (Mex.) Nov. 2. (Exclusive)—Less than a week ago Bacatete, ancient capital of the Yaqui tribes, rested defiant and insolent in its isolation in the Bacatete Mountains. Today not a mongrel Indian wanders through the streets.

The vengeance of the hated Yori, as the Yaquis call the non-Yaqui, has descended upon the Indians for the wanton destruction of scores of bridges along the railway from Esplanada to Guaymas, and other depredations. Last week nine battle planes, attached to forces of Mexican troops investing the Yaqui country, left the aviation field at La Mesa, north of Orizaba on the railway between Guaymas and Nogales, and few southwest over and forbidding barren hills of Yaqui-land. Less than an hour later they were raining fifteen pound dynamite bombs on the Yaqui Mountain stronghold besides shooting it up with explosive bullets.

SHARPSHOOTERS

Yaqui sharpshooters posted on the highest peaks about attempted to bring down the planes and Indian tom-toms beat the call of battle, as the Yaquis have done in defense of Yaqui-land for at least five centuries, expecting that troops would follow the lead of the planes.

But no troops appeared. Instead, bombs played havoc with the frail buildings of the Indians, setting fire to the straw roofs. The attack out of the sky, so unlike any of the modes of attack to which the Indians are accustomed, demoralized their forces, who shot their guns at random toward the heavens, instead of each picking his man, as is the Yaqui custom.

As the Indian sharpshooters began to get the range of the planes and bullets flew through the wings, the sharpshooters suddenly swung away from Bacatete to Bacatito, the headquarters of the second division of the Yaquis, and the murderous bombs were dropped upon it. Again the sharpshooters held their ground, the tom-toms again beat their urgent call to battle, and the Indians fired at the enemy beyond reach. Here again the planes finally were driven off by sharpshooters.

Eight attacks were made by the planes on the Indian villages and 7000 explosive bullets were rained into

MEN'S BEAUTY BUDGET LARGE

Tonsorial Expense Nearly as Great as Women's,
Says Dealer

CHICAGO, Nov. 2. (Exclusive)—Well groomed business men of America spend just as much money in barber shops maintaining their personal appearance as their wives invest in "dolling up" in beauty establishments. N. S. Sherman of an Indianapolis cosmetic company declared at the annual convention of barbers' supply men.

"Tonsorial budget of the average business man especially careful of his appearance totals $6.20 a week, trade statistics show," said Mr. Sherman. "Weekly beauty bill of the average American woman intent on guarding her good looks amounts to $6.50."

As the fire swept through the towns, the Indian men, women and children fled for protection along the rugged sides of the mountains.

INDIANS SLAIN

In the attack on the two towns and the aerial pursuit, scores of Indians were killed. In accordance with tribal custom the Yaquis attempted at first to carry off their dead and this added to their destruction. Soon the dead and wounded were abandoned and the men and women, carrying the smaller children in their arms, sought shelter under overhanging cliffs and in deep ravines without once looking back at the dense smoke heralding the destruction of their stronghold.

Nearly four centuries ago the first Spanish conqueror fought his way into the Yaqui stronghold after months of effort, when the Indians were armed only with bows and arrows. But he finally was driven out by the Indians and only a few of the Spanish troops again reached civilization.

Other armed forces have gone into Yaqui-land, but they have paid for their temerity in one way or another. But in four hours' bombing and shooting explosive bullets from battle planes took the two Indian strongholds without loss of a single life or plane.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Premier G. Howard Ferguson, who explained that under the system of government control and sale of liquor with local option to be put into effect if he is successful at the polls, purchases of liquor would be indulged on the personal permits to be issued by the commission. This safeguard, he said, would be effective in stopping illegal importation of liquor.

Ing the League of Nations. The problem is left here to be all the more acute because no light is seen as to how the question is to be solved.

Germany is known to be keenly desirous of getting back one or more colonies, but apparently is approaching this delicate matter with great caution. She hopes that perhaps she will be able to get satisfaction through private conversations with representatives of the other powers, and has already taken the matter up at the now famous party at Thoiry between Foreign Minister Briand of France and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany.

Recent developments at Geneva indicate a tendency on the part of the countries which inherited Germany's colonies under the form of mandates to regard their position in these countries as more or less sovereign.

Both Great Britain and France have protested against a questionnaire drawn up by the mandates commission of the League of Nations asking Great Britain and France to answer such questions as the extent of commercial equality which obtains in the mandated districts and whether the economic development of the districts is not imposing too great a burden upon the native races.

The most popular belief concerning satisfaction for Germany, whether through the return of one of her former colonies or the bestowal of a mandate over some other colony, is that Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa, which is now under the mandate of Great Britain, will be restored to the Reich Republic, although Great Britain has said nothing to indicate her adhesion to such a scheme.

Germany's industrial and colonial interests are unstable upon colonies as seats of production for raw material needed for German industries, and as seats also for the considerable part of the German population which seeks adventure and opportunity in distant lands. In the Pacific Ocean, Germany lost the island of Nauru, which is under the man-

Lively Voting in $50,000 Prize Race; Four Days More of Biggest Vote Offer

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO CANDIDATES

The 100,000 extra vote offer closes promptly at 9 p.m., Saturday, November 6. Many candidates are planning to bring their subscription clubs to the campaign department in person, and adequate provision will be made to wait upon them. At the closing hour, the doors of the campaign office will be closed and no one will be allowed to enter after that time. All those inside, however, will be waited upon.

Candidates in outside districts are reminded that they have exactly as much time to devote to this special offer as city candidates. Remittances may be mailed, and these will apply on the 100,000 extra vote offer providing the letter shows a postmark not later than November 6—9 p.m.

With the close of the greatest vote offer in the Los Angeles Times $50,000 Automobile and Prize Campaign only four days removed, candidates are voting along at a merry clip, and the close of the week bids fair to send their vote standings and their hopes soaring upwards.

In the list published today it would be hard to find a candidate without $30 club aspirations, and what is more, they are busily engaged in building their clubs. Since each club means a gain of 100,000 votes in addition to all the regular votes, tremendous forward strides are possible towards the ultimate goal. The liberal extra vote offer—largest of the entire campaign—has tempted new candidates to enter the race, and their names appear today for the first time.

The voting, it may be said, is well under way, yet a glance at the various standings will indicate that no one is out of reach. Any of those having only the 12,000-vote nomination credit at this time may quickly become leading contenders by turning in only a few subscriptions. By turning in the first subscription this week, 20,000 free votes are gained (see coupon below), and a $30 club or more would send the vote total up to and beyond that of today's leaders.

Practically every candidate in the list expects to have at least one club by Saturday night, and some of them hope to do even better than that. A word of caution is perhaps in order, now that candidates will be busy on their clubs: Be careful in sending remittances not to mark old subscriptions as new. Only NEW subscriptions count on the 100,000 extra vote offer, and old subscriptions cannot in any way be transferred or "switched" to make them new. To stop The Times, and re-subscribe in the name of some other member of the household is not permissible to get extra votes. All subscriptions turned in are verified, and candidates turning in old subscriptions as new will forfeit their votes thereon.

The tabulation of votes today represents votes held for publication up to noon Tuesday. All nominations received up to that time are also included. The next vote standings will appear in the Sunday Times.

Take a look at the regular vote schedule below. Any combination of subscriptions as shown there amounting to $30 constitutes a club. All regular votes shown in this schedule are given as usual, and in addition, a bonus of 100,000 extra votes. A few minutes' study will show how easy it is for any man or woman to enter now and become a leader for one of the thirty prize automobiles soon to be awarded. Let that person be YOU!

Schedule of Regular Votes

Below are shown the subscription rates of the Los Angeles Times. Vote values shown are given on NEW subscriptions. Old (renewal) subscriptions entitle the candidate to half the number of votes issued on new subscriptions.

STANDARD OIL
SLICES MELONDeclares Extra of 50 Cents for Year of 1926Brings Dividend Total to $2.50; is Not Fixed PolicyAction Comes When Market is Closed for Holiday

Catching the stock market when its doors were closed in observance of the general elections throughout the country, the directors of the Standard Oil Company of California yesterday declared an extra cash dividend of 50 cents a share. This payment, according to the announcement made through the Los Angeles office, is in addition to regular quarterly dividend No. 3, of 50 cents a share, both of which are payable December 15 to stockholders of record on the 15th inst.

While various rumors of a change in the dividend policy have been in circulation for some time, the announcement of an extra at this time is somewhat of a surprise to the traders in the stock market. Generally, the Standard Oil Company has been declared unentitled in the past to a change in the dividend policy.

The stock market, however, is still left with an important question to ponder. The official announcement of the extra stated it was "declared for 1926." The speculators will have to determine whether the stock will continue on a basis of $3 as the regular rate and 50 cents extra each year, or whether the extra is only in reflection of profits earned in 1926.

Standard Oil of California paid its last extra cash dividend in March, 1921, amounting to 1 per cent. The best year, in December, 1922, a 100 per cent stock dividend was declared. Previous extra cash dividends included 1 per cent in December, 1919, and 4 per cent in 1920. Extra of 2 1/2 per cent in January, 1921, was paid in 1918 and 1919. Stock dividends have included 50 per cent in April, 1916; 23 1/3 per cent in April, 1917, and 100 per cent in December, 1922.

With only about 175 cars to go to market, California's latest Valencia orange crop is just about a thing of the past. Dana C. King, orange sales manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, announced yesterday.

The Valencia movement is ending at just the right time, leaving the stage set for the coming navel crop. Mr. King stated, "The fine quality of the fruit has met a ready reception at the hands of the consumer and there is no extreme shortage of California oranges in the market to give trade or consumer an opportunity to get out of the habit of using them."

During the week ended October 23, last, the exchange sales of oranges alone amounted to $1,295,252, declared value.

Reports from the citrus district around San Benito, Tex., state that the crop from that valley will total about 1000 cars of oranges and grapefruit combined. The grapefruit is already moving. Last year this new district marketed less than 400 cars due to a severe freeze.

Commenting on the October decrease, the company says:

"October last year was unusually cold and occasioned a pre-season demand for winter merchandise resulting in sales of nearly $20,000,000, an increase of approximately 27 per cent over the preceding October. October this year has one less working day than last year. These are the principal reasons for the sales recession."

PAY-ROLL BANDIT
TOLL IS HEAVYTotal Taken in Robberies
During Year Set at $4,000,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (Exclusive)—Up to the first of October, pay-roll bandits in the United States took a total of $4,000,000 in a year, according to an estimate announced today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company. The number of pay-roll robberies reported for that period, it was estimated, would total more than 400, based on available newspaper reports of crimes of this kind, and it is believed these reports include less than 75 per cent of the robberies actually committed.

Analysis of the reports showed that pay-roll hold-ups have been notably frequent during and heavy in their toll of cash in New York City, California, St. Louis, East St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit and Newark, N. J. Robberies committed on streets while cash was in transit accounted for 49 per cent of the total, and robberies committed after cash was delivered totaled 51 per cent.

Specifically, the publisher of the Financial World objects to Prof. Ripley's criticism of the treatment by the holding companies of depreciation. Standing in the position of stockholders, in operating companies, the holding companies, he contends, have no particular reason to set aside liberal appropriations for depreciation. Depreciation generally is taken care of by the operating companies before net earnings are allocated for dividend distribution.

On another point, the contention of Mr. Ripley that utility companies should strictly confine themselves to the business of supplying utility service, Mr. Guenther takes issue again. Companies like Cities Service, Standard Oil and Electric and American Water Works and Electric, mentioned by Ripley, embarked originally on outside activities because of circumstances, according to him, mentioned by the holding companies. He continued in these activities for the best interests of the stockholders.

Cities Service, he related, in exploring for natural gas in the Edison plant area, acquired a large supply of oil. Rather than disregard the possibilities of enrichment for stockholders on the ground that operations should be confined to the utility business, Cities Service exploited the ground and has since built up a separate company, now segregated from the utility operations. In the case of American Water Works and Electric, the Sacramento-San Joaquin project was acquired through a reorganization, and is an asset that may eventually be sold.

Prof. Ripley's critic prefers to look at the judgment of control in a case of this kind. He asks, "On the other hand, this method, if properly checked, allow the continuance of a successful management without fear of overthrow from hostile interest."

Concerning Prof. Ripley's expressions on customer-ownership, the Financial World states that the Financial World is not a customer-ownership, but an asset that may eventually be sold.

"I disagree sharply with Mr. Ripley as to his views on specific case of sale of public utility operating company preferred stocks has come to my attention where the safety of the dividend was in question. In most instances the sale of preferred stocks to customers has been the operation of companies and not of the holding companies and under proper State regulation. Certainly such securities are as far superior to the type of rich-quick offerings that were formerly sold by high-pressure methods in many of our markets and our ownership brings about a clearer understanding of the public utility problem."

The articles of both writers are important contributions to financial literature, and, in themselves, serve to throw some light on the utility industry. Investors will profit from a careful reading of them.

RIPLEY ATTACK ANSWERED
Financial Publisher Takes Issue With Professor on Several Points of Holding-Company Criticism

BY EARLE E. CROWE

While public-utility executives maintain a discreet and dignified silence on the criticism of holding companies made by Prof. William Z. Ripley in the current issue of the Atlantic Monthly, the publisher of one of the well-known financial journals elects to take issue with the Harvard professor on several of his points. In doing so, he finds himself in accord with the general spirit of the criticism, but not with some of the specific tendencies denominated as evils.

Ripley's critic, Louis Guenther, publisher of the Financial World, writing in the forthcoming issue of his periodical, does not react favorably to the suggestion that Federal legislation is required to regulate the utility holding companies. Like many others, he shies from the thought of more laws, either State or national, and suggests a rectify of his own. He states in his article:

"The real remedy lies in educating the investment public as to the true value of the various holding-company securities. If the common stock represents a holding company represents but a small equity in the earnings of the controlled companies, it is quite obvious that any important change in the earnings of the operating companies and it is obvious that such a stock is in a more speculative position than one whose holding company's equity is larger. Most holding companies give full information on the capital structure of their subsidiaries, their earnings and the capital structure of the holding company."

Specifically, the publisher of the Financial World objects to Prof. Ripley's criticism of the treatment by the holding companies of depreciation. Standing in the position of stockholders, in operating companies, the holding companies, he contends, have no particular reason to set aside liberal appropriations for depreciation. Depreciation generally is taken care of by the operating companies before net earnings are allocated for dividend distribution.

On another point, the contention of Mr. Ripley that utility companies should strictly confine themselves to the business of supplying utility service, Mr. Guenther takes issue again. Prof. Ripley's critic prefers to look at the judgment of control in a case of this kind. He asks, "On the other hand, this method, if properly checked, allow the continuance of a successful management without fear of overthrow from hostile interest."

Concerning Prof. Ripley's expressions on customer-ownership, the Financial World states that the Financial World is not a customer-ownership, but an asset that may eventually be sold.

"I disagree sharply with Mr. Ripley as to his views on specific case of sale of public utility operating company preferred stocks has come to my attention where the safety of the dividend was in question. In most instances the sale of preferred stocks to customers has been the operation of companies and not of the holding companies and under proper State regulation. Certainly such securities are as far superior to the type of rich-quick offerings that were formerly sold by high-pressure methods in many of our markets and our ownership brings about a clearer understanding of the public utility problem."

The articles of both writers are important contributions to financial literature, and, in themselves, serve to throw some light on the utility industry. Investors will profit from a careful reading of them.

On the other hand, this method, if properly checked, allow the continuance of a successful management without fear of overthrow from hostile interest."

MOVEMENT OF FRUIT AT HIGH LEVELLarge Crop of Celery to Come on Market Shortly;
Cotton Disappoints

Movement of deciduous fruits from California up to the end of October aggregated 60,000 car loads, according to the crop report issued by the agricultural department of the Santa Fe, J. F. Jarrall, manager, for November.

The quality of the immense fruit production was good, the report added, and the prices fair. Olive production is light this season, but the high quality of the crop has been maintained.

The harvesting of the big rice crop is under way. Potatoes have produced a satisfactory output, but have been profitable, but prices for the latter vegetable have been off. Cotton has been a heavy crop, but the quality is disappointing. The live-stock situation is improving. Early fall rains have been of advantage to the grain and range and California this winter will pasture many cattle from other States.

Hay quotations are firmer on more active demand.

Hay market ruled firm during the week ended October 30, last, with offerings readily absorbed at most markets, according to the weekly hay market review of the United States Department of Agriculture. Cooler weather helped stimulate demand, although shipping inquiry from the Southern States continued only fair. Pastures continued generally good for the season. The Mississippi River and rains during the week were beneficial in the southeastern quarter of the United States. Trade reports, however, claimed that pastures were not fully satisfactory in the more northern sections.

Alfalfa held steady with shipping inquiry only fair. Demand was good at Chicago. Shipping inquiry continued at the close of the week. Demand for alfalfa was steady at most markets, being sold to points as far east as West Virginia. Dairies were paying premiums of $1 to $2 for very early hay at Kansas City and mills were moderate buyers of green Colorado hay. Inquiry was more active at San Francisco, but no amount of dry weather in that territory.

Quotations at the principal markets at the close of the week were as follows: No. 1 Timothy: Boston, $2.50; New York, $2.70; Pittsburgh, $2.25; Cincinnati, $2.50; Chicago, $2.25; Minneapolis-St. Paul, $2.50; Kansas City, $1.75; Memphis, $2.50. No. 1 alfalfa: Omaha, $1.50; Kansas City, $2.00; San Francisco, $1.50. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $2.10; Minneapolis-St. Paul, $1.50; Omaha, $1.80; Kansas City, $1.50.

LOCAL TRAFFIC
IN GARLIC ONLY
750,000 POUNDS

Garlic eaters are not plentiful in Los Angeles. Only 750,000 pounds, or twenty-five car loads are consumed here annually, the Los Angeles branch of the State Department of Agriculture learned in response to a request from a shipper who planned to divert ten car loads to this city. The Italians, the Greeks, and to a lesser extent, the Mexicans, are the chief consumers.

Still, it is probable that many people are unknowingly consumers of garlic, for the annual amount consumed in Los Angeles figures out about one-half to three-quarters of a pound for the annual amount consumed in the city. The most packers in sausage and other seasoned provisions are the largest buyers, and it is their products that carry the garlic to the tables of consumers.

The division of markets of the State Department of Agriculture is in the United States. It is grown in Alameda county, the Salinas Valley and in the Imperial Valley.

Two cars of good 854-pound northern steers topped at 12.50. Other steers were mostly medium kind from 7.50 to 12.50, with a few of common steers sold down to 6.00. Cows and heifers were fairly numerous from 6.00 to 12.50, with a few better calves 4.50. Most of the stock went over from 5.00 to 12.50. Common and medium kinds, usually carrying considerable weight, turned from 5.00 to 8.00. HOGS—Today's run was late in arriving and with demand only moderately active, a rather slow trade resulted at lower rates and closing prices were very correct. unable to verify this, saying their records did not show such a purchase. Progress of the Ormiston trunk inquiry, was slackened yesterday on account of the election holiday. Investigators, however, will set out again today to seek evidence which will indicate the purchaser and owner of the sixty-seven different articles in the Ormiston trunk.

Mr. Keyes plans to take the trunk today from a vault at a downtown bank and turn it over to his investigators. One garment in the trunk, a blue and white corded silk dress, according to Mr. Keyes, has been identified as having come from Angelus Temple by a laundry mark. Officials of the Panet Dry Cleaning Company on Glendale Boulevard as well as officers of the Weather-Kayser Shoe Company and of Bullock's are to be asked again today about the clothing and the shoes in the trunk.

One evening gown in the trunk bears the inscription "Made in France"—and "Imported by Bullock's." This dress is to be taken to the store for a check against the store records.

READY TO SUBMIT CASE

S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Wiseman, who confessedly perpetrated the Carmel "Miss X" hoax, said he is prepared to submit the case to Judge Blake today without oral argument.

Mrs. Wiseman complained to him yesterday, he said, she is still being hounded and followed by mysterious persons. Unless this stops, Mr. Hahn stated, he will appeal to the police.

Mrs. McPherson and her mother yesterday spent a quiet day at the beach in preparation for the final day of the hearing. Neither the evangelist nor her attorney, Mr. Gilbert, would comment on the case yesterday except that the latter said he was prepared to give his argument.

Briefs were submitted to Judge Blake on Monday and he spent the entire day yesterday going over the legal citations from both sides to be in readiness to hear the arguments and, possibly, to hand down his decision.

Mrs. McPherson Fails to Appear at Night Service

Alma Temple McPherson made no appearance at Angelus Temple last night where several hundred persons assembled to hear the service.

Although absent in the flesh, Mrs. McPherson was represented by proxy in the form of a magic lantern. Colored slides, illustrative of her career, almost from birth down to the present, were shown, many of them picturing what the speaker said were miraculous "healings" which she has accomplished by prayer.

The principal speaker, who was introduced as Sister Morrison, declared that a tree is known by its fruit and she pointed to Angelus Temple, with its party 3000 converts, as proof that the evangelist was chosen by the Lord to carry on His work.

Several of the slides pictured Mrs.

McPherson at the beach and others showed her as she appeared while doing missionary work in the Holy Land and other countries abroad. Another which was greeted with enthusiastic applause was a snapshot said to have been taken by the evangelist's private secretary shortly before her disappearance.

"This picture," the speaker said, "was taken of Sister a day or so before she was kidnapped and it was after we began to believe that she had gone to be with the Lord that we decided to have it enlarged."

No explanation was offered by any of the speakers as to why the evangelist took no part in the service.

Shellenback Burned as He Rescues Wife

Frank Shellenback, pitcher of the Hollywood baseball team of the Coast League, rescued his wife yesterday in a fire at their home, 848 N. Spaulding avenue. Mrs. Shellenback was cleaning clothing with gasoline when the vapor caught fire from a gas heater and there was an explosion. Shellenback beat out the flames with his bare hands.

Mrs. Shellenback suffered first and second-degree burns of arm, neck and face and Shellenback's right hand was blistered. After first-aid treatment by the fire department rescue squad they were attended by their private physician, Dr. F. J. Beckett. It is said Shellenback's hurts will not interfere with his pitching.

AFTER winning a wager of $1000 by driving an automobile across the continent from New York to Los Angeles in twelve days, Mrs. H. L. Brady, prominent in eastern social circles, is en route home aboard the Panama Mail liner Venezuela.

Going back home with Mrs. Brady is Noah, an alley cat, who was saved from possible death by Mrs. Brady while passing through California and while Mrs. Brady was driving along a road just a few miles outside of Topock, she espied Noah clinging precariously to a small piece of driftwood on a body of water that had been caused by the heavy rains. Noah was rescued by Mrs. Brady and she decided to keep the cat as a pet.

Mrs. Brady remained in Los Angeles for two weeks. She said she is returning to New York to arrange certain business matters and plans to return to Southern California and establish a winter home.

The State of Indiana have the best roads and highways of any State. She said that she had a narrow escape from being held up while passing through Albuquerque when she was flagged by a man on the highway. She stepped on the gas and, however, succeeded in throwing the man from the running-board.

HEARING FOR MRS. JONES TO BE TODAY

Film Actress's Marriage Tangle Due for Airing in Perjury Case

The tangled marital affairs of C. Leonard Jones, sales manager of the Hugh Evans Realty Company, and his wife, Leila Sue Jones, film actress, a beauty contest winner, which twice before have ended each of the pair once to the doors of prison, are scheduled to be aired again today when Mrs. Jones appears before Superior Judge Burnell for a preliminary hearing on perjury charges recently filed against her.

Court records show that she was arrested on October 23, 1926, and is at present at liberty under bail. The charges are said to be the outgrowth of testimony she is asserted to have given when a final decree of divorce recently was set aside after a hearing before Judge Summerfield. She was granted an interlocutory decree in June, 1925, but contested the granting of the final action when it came up in June of this year on petition of her husband, according to the latter.

At that time, Jones declares, his wife testified that they had lived together as man and wife after the interdictory decree was granted and that she was about to become a mother.

Shortly before her arrest bigamy charges that she had caused to be filed against her husband were dismissed for lack of evidence.

The couple were married in the Imperial Valley on December 21, 1923, and a short time later, August 1, 1924.

TWO MENACING FIRES SUBDUED

The flames reared northeast toward Mt. Baldieback, getting within two miles of the mountain. Then they again headed for Santa Catalina, later pointing toward Trabuco Canyon and Hunters Ranch.

RANGERS PREPARED

Rangers in the vicinity are reported to have a good fire line ready and are in a position to put up a stiff fight.

J. E. Elliott of San Diego, supervisor of Cleveland National Forest, yesterday flew over the fire area in an airplane. He estimated that about 5000 acres of the devastated region is in the national forest.

No further destruction of cabins has been reported. Loss of a dozen mountain homes of Los Angeles and Long Beach residents previously had been chronicled.

Fire which broke out in Griffith Park late yesterday afternoon was extinguished after a brief but well directed offensive launched by the Los Angeles fire department.

The blaze broke out on the northern park hillside, where a house is familiarly known as the Lasky ranch area. County fire fighters were ready to go to the assistance of the city at any moment, but a volunteer crew from the Ince ranch joined the city firemen and between them they routed the blaze before it had made serious headway.

SIN THRILLS EASTERNER

President of New York Stock Exchange Delights in Southern California Climate

His countenance beaming from its sudden exposure to what he characterized as a "glorious sunshine into which we emerged this morning after traveling drab stretches between the Gila and Canyon and here," E. H. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock Exchange, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon and paused only long enough to land the growth of Southern California and visit Hollywood before he departed for San Francisco to fulfill a speaking engagement. He was accompanied by S. P. Street, president of the Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation, a subsidiary of the New York Stock Exchange.

"Your slogan, 'land of eternal sunshine,' seems to be well founded on facts," Mr. Simmons remarked, as he wiped a perspiring brow, "and the national advertising organizations should have no complaints to register on the ethics of truth in advertising as applied to your campaign of propaganda boosting the nation's playground."

"And this glorious sunshine is very welcome, I assure you, after experiencing some of the brands of weather that we experienced in New York last month. This sunshine, and this kind of weather, in all probability stimulate the initiative that produced the amazing growth which has occurred since my last visit six years ago. It's an astounding progress that I observed from the car windows since we crossed the State line this morning, and you

TIME SALES INTEREST BRITISHERS

London Financier Here on Visit Will Study System of Installment Buying

Buying merchandise on the installment plan to the extent practiced in the United States is a subject of some curiosity in Great Britain, according to Douglas Mure Wood, Edinburgh, manager of the Scottish-American Mortgage Company, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday.

The financier is making an investigation of installment buying during his visit here, which was undertaken primarily to look over the ground for American investments by his company, which already has some $14,000,000 invested in American transportation, industrial and public-utility securities.

Installment buying in Britain is just beginning to get a foothold, said Wood. "It has not gone beyond automobiles and pianos, and even these commodities have not been sold on credit until very recently. British financiers regard the installment system with some doubt and it is not likely that it will ever attain the proportions across the water that I find it has reached in this country."

The Scottish-American Mortgage Company has been making investments in America for many years. Its first venture being conducted almost exclusively to farm mortgages, Mr. Wood said.

"The recent unsettled state of farm conditions here induced the company to switch to other securities," he explained. "We have considerable amounts invested in securities on the Pacific Coast, including a block of stock in the California Edison Company."

Stewart Fate in Rum Case Rests on Two Words

Donald Armstrong, assistant United States Attorney in charge of the civil department, yesterday returned from San Francisco where he argued the Alexander B. Stewart rum-running case before the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The fate of Stewart, a wealthy Long Beach packer, rests upon two words, "feloniously and," that were stricken from counts two and three of the indictment charging him with conspiring to violate the National Prohibition Act on January 1, 1922, when a large quantity of liquor was landed on the wharf of his corporation.

United States District Judge McCormick struck the words from the bill upon motion of defense counsel and the Circuit Court recently ruled that this voided the charge.

Motion was made by U. S. Atty. McNabb after the Circuit Court's reversal of the lower court's ruling. Immediately petitioned the higher tribunal to prohibit Judge McCormick from further participation in the proceedings.

BREAKFAST CLUB TO HONOR AUSTRALIAN

Sir Hugh Denison, Lord High Trade Commissioner of Australia, will have the seat of honor Friday morning at the Breakfast Club. President Maurice DeMond has arranged a program to include the Dunsmuir sisters who will sing and play a number of sketches. Under the personal leadership of Jack Cronan, the Holly Main, a women's jazz band, will present a program of syncopation. A 6-year-old boy entertainer, Sunny Yule, will perform the antics which have made him well known through his appearance in motion pictures. A short talk on "Friendship in Advertising" will be delivered by Carl A. Bundy, vice-president of the Advertising Club.

Southern Californians should be justly proud of the tremendous foreign strides apparent in this section of the State.

The financier refused to discuss either business conditions or political conditions apparent in the section of the State.

Mr. Simmons was re-elected last May to serve a second term as head of the New York Stock Exchange. He is scheduled to address the Commonwealth Club at San Francisco on the 5th inst., on "Modern Capitalism," and is also booked to speak in Portland, Salt Lake and Denver.

TEST CASE TO AID AUTOISTS

pear in a court in the city in which they reside.

Allen was arrested yesterday in Culver City for speeding and, according to his petition for a writ, demanded that he be cited to appear in Municipal Court in this city.

Allen stated the officer told him he had never heard of such a provision and upon Allen's refusal to sign a citation agreeing to appear in Recorder's Court in Culver City, was locked up in the jail of the suburban city, where he remained until his attorney, R. W. Kenny, appeared on the scene with the writ granted by Judge Shaw.

The writ ordered Police Chief Coombs of Culver City to produce Allen in Judge Keesh's court tomorrow and show cause why he should detain Allen.

Courthouse attaches pointed out that if Allen is successful in his action the court ruling will assure all motorists arrested anywhere in the county of a hearing before the local courts if they wish to demand such a hearing at the time of their arrest.

Advisory Members Added to State Organization
Leader in Endowment Move
Makes Announcement

Appointment of three new California committees to aid the American Historical Association in raising an endowment fund of $1,000,000 "to promote American history and history in America" is announced by former Senator Beveridge of Indiana, chairman of the association's national endowment committee. Organization of committees to obtain the endowment has been completed in practically every State. A New York committee has been formed with former Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes at its head. Several State governors are acting as chairmen and are working with scholars and business and professional leaders.

Eight advisory members have been added to the California State committee, of which Prof. William A. Morris of the University of California is chairman. They are: Prof. E. D. Adams, Stanford University; President W. W. Camp, University of California; Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce; Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, San Francisco; Prof. R. E. Hunt, University of Southern California; President Roy L. Wilbur, Stanford University.

COMMITTEES FOR CITIES
San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego committees have also been organized. Prof. Morris heads the San Francisco group of which other members are Prof. H. E. Bolton of the University of California, Dr. William Tappan Lum, Alameda, and Prof. F. J. Treat of Stanford.

Prof. Waldemar C. Westergaard of the University of California, Southern Branch, has been named chairman of the Los Angeles committee. His associates are: Prof. Owen C. Coy, University of California, Southern Branch; Edward A. Dickson, Los Angeles Evening Express; Prof. J. C. Parikh, University of California, Southern Branch.

President E. L. Hardy of the State Teachers' College has accepted the chairmanship of the San Diego committee. Other members of this committee include C. B. Leonard of San Diego, Prof. L. B. Leley of the State Teachers' College, and Miss Ruth Price of San Diego High School, who is executive secretary.

ASSOCIATION'S AIM
"Dedicated to the promotion of 'American History and of History in America,' the American Historical Association has, since its foundation forty-two years ago, proved a most efficient agency in directing and co-ordinating historical interests throughout the United States," says a statement issued by the association, in appealing for support.

"Among those who have assumed the presidency of this association and have served its high cause with distinction are two Presidents of the United States—Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson—and such outstanding men as Andrew D. White, George Bancroft, James B. Angell, Henry Adams, George F. Hoar, Charles Francis Adams, Henry Charles Lea, George Burton Adams, William A. Dunning and H. Morse Stephens.

"Through its publications and the work of its committees, the association has been, during the last forty years, a notable influence in promoting better history, better teaching and better citizenship.

"Against this rich background the American Historical Association now proposes to extend its work and influence. It asks the general public for a $1,000,000 endowment in order that the association may continue and enlarge its national service and not be faced in this era of depleted dollar with serious curtailment of its work.

"Adequate endowment will mean more effective organization of historical research, the study of the backgrounds of matters of wide public interest, such as immigration and sectionalism, an approach to our legal, economic and social problems that will carry us beyond a mere surface study."

Attempt Suicide

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
PASADENA, Nov. 2.—Virginia Copeland, 22-year-old clerk in a local department store, is believed to be dying today in the South Pasadena Hospital, following an attempt last night to commit suicide by shooting herself over the heart in the apartment of W. W. McAdam at 260 North Madison street. The girl's parents, who live at 1460 Kirkwood avenue, declare she was in love with McAdam, who did not return her affection.

Miss Copeland went to McAdam's apartment when he was absent, forced an entrance by cutting a screen and shot herself with McAdam's revolver. McAdam, who is a salesman for a local music house, found her unconscious and bleeding when he returned home shortly afterward.

Detective Lieutenants Kaighn and Decker reported their investigations showed the young woman had vainly attempted to persuade McAdam's landlady to give her a key to his apartment. McAdam stated he met Miss Copeland only a few months ago, and had not seen her for several months.

A SUBMERGED CITY
The ruins of an ancient city have been found thirty feet under water in the Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Tunisia. Divers who have investigated, say that there seem to be many stone structures, some with elegant carvings, to be seen partly covered with the sand of the ocean bottom. Archaeologists are preparing to make investigations and are anticipating interesting finds. Additional interest is attached to the discovery by the fact that the ruins lie in the waters described by Virgil and near the "Isle of Lotus Eaters" of which Homer sang.

GALLEONS OF OLD SAIL ANEW
Bygone Days Recalled by Ship Models

Santa Maria (above) Finds America Again

FOURTEEN potential seafarers, who apparently have fallen under the spell of things maritime, have worked out their enthusiasm in fourteen boat models on exhibition this week at the Earl Hardware Store, 1400 Broadway and Beverly Boulevard. These are trim sailboats, schooners and ancient galleys, all of which show skill in workmanship and fine regard for accuracy of detail. The gallery.

boys who made them are all under 17 years of age. One youth spent almost a year making his model.

The boats are entered in a contest with prizes to be awarded next Wednesday. The judges will be yachtsmen who know the technical features about boats and will judge them with the eyes of experts. The prize for the best sailboat will be a complete chest of tools and a silver cup goes to the maker of the best regard for accuracy of detail. The gallery.

JAPAN SCHOOLS AID PEACE
Raphael Herman Says Textbooks Urged by World Federation Minimize Martial History

Textbooks so changed as to extol peace rather than war already have been adopted in many of the public schools of Japan in harmony with the aims of the World Federation of Education Associations, according to Raphael Herman of Washington, one of the promoters of the federation and the donor of the $25,000 prize for an educational plan for world peace awarded to Dr. David Starr Jordan.

Mr. Herman arrived in Los Angeles yesterday and is a guest at the Ambassador. He is here to spend the winter in California, as he has done for several years past.

"The spirit in which Japan has taken up the plan to educate for peace is extremely encouraging," said Mr. Herman. "I believe the Japanese have gone further in changing their school textbooks than any other country thus far, though changes also are being made in textbooks in England."

"A committee of the federation now is at work outlining a systematic plan for school textbook changes, which will be submitted at the biennial meeting of the organization in Toronto next August. It is probable that after this meeting most of the more than seventy countries represented by the federation will undertake the changes in school textbooks recommended by the report of this committee."

The advocacy of such changes in textbooks, particularly in history, so as to minimize the exploits of warriors and treat events in a manner that will not engender ill feeling against any nation in the minds of pupils, is one of the important planks in the platform of the World Federation of Education Associations, whose fundamental aim is to educate for peace instead of war.

"The new history texts of Japan stress the achievements of such men as Edison and Lincoln rather than the work of Napoleon or other famous military leaders," said Mr. Herman. "They do not seek to develop patriotism on the basis of hatred and distrust of other nations."

Mr. Herman recently returned from an extended tour of Europe and expressed himself briefly on some of his observations on that continent.

"To my mind, the situation in Italy presages interesting developments," he said. "Among other things, I was told by prominent Italians that there is less tranquility in the ranks of the Fascists than appears on the surface. Nobody denies that Fascism has done much to improve conditions in Italy, but I observed rumblings indicating the movement probably has gone as far as is good for the country."

Mr. Herman said Dr. Augustus O. Thomas of Augusta, Me., president of the World Federation of Education Associations, will be a Los Angeles visitor next month.

Stipulation Reached on Mabel Normand's Plea
Against Mrs. Church

Dismissal of the $500,000 libel suit filed by Mabel Normand, screen actress, against Mrs. George W. Church has been ordered by the State Supreme Court as the result of a stipulation by attorneys for both sides. It was announced yesterday by Deputy Clerk Coulter.

Similar action has been taken in the suit in which the actress sought the right to intervene in the divorce suit Mrs. Church brought against her husband, Norman W. Church, Coulter added.

The controversy between Mrs. Church and Miss Normand started in 1924, when the former filed her divorce complaint and, among other things, asserted while attired in a nightgown, that Miss Normand, visited Mr. Church in his room at local hospital. It was also asserted that the actress kissed Mr. Church goodbye when he left the institution. They were patients at the hospital at the same time in 1923, according to the complaint.

Miss Normand denied the charges and filed an action to give her permission to appear as an intervener in the divorce suit. The Superior Court denied her petition.

The actress then filed a suit asking $500,000 damages for libel, denying Mrs. Church's assertions and charging that the statements in the divorce complaint were malicious. The Superior Court dismissed the complaint without leave to amend.

Petitions asking the Supreme Court to set aside the orders of the Superior Court were filed by counsel for the actress and the case was waiting hearing when the dismissal was ordered.

HALLOWEEN LINKED TO BACCHUS
Eleven Haled Into Court After Celebration Admit They Don't Know What Holiday is All About But Think It Open Season on Flasks

They were all somewhat hazy in their knowledge of what it was all about but they are unanimous in their belief that Halloween is a day on which convivial celebration without thought or fear of the Wright Act is permissible. Anyway, that was the opinion of the numerous defendants brought before Municipal Judge Turner yesterday on charges of possessing liquor illegally, blamed all their troubles on Halloween and considerable misfortune.

While none of the eleven was able to tell the court what the real significance of Halloween is, they all were soon of the opinion that the fact that the future of the Wright Act is in the hands of the jury and they individually and collectively expressed a willingness to be better informed on all holidays to come.

In the opinion of one defendant, Halloween is the same as Thanksgiving. A flapper respondent thought it was "something to do with religion," a third declared it was all about the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers, while the others all seemed to be drunk without any idea of what the holiday was all about.

Rabago freely told the court he did not know just what he was celebrating but that he had been informed that he could get drunk without fear of being interfered with by the police.

"The fellow that told me that, didn't know what he was talking about," Rabago declared sadly. "I was arrested an hour after I had started out to have a good time, just because I had a bottle of whiskey in my hand. I told the officer it was Halloween but he didn't pay any attention to it and he would celebrate by taking me to jail."

To further impress the defendant with his error in celebration judgment, Judge Turner imposed a fine of $50, which was paid.

TRIO JAILED ON SWINDLE ACCUSATION
Police Charge Attempt to Perpetrate Ancient Bunko Game on Angelenos

Accused of having tried to perpetrate an ancient confidence game on August 8, Ruse of 638 South Alvarado street, Robert Masters, 50 years of age, Tom Burns, 60, and Albert Lenville, 75, were arrested yesterday on suspicion of grand larceny and bunko.

According to Detective Lieutenants Murray and Yarrow, the three men became acquainted with Ruse, and one of them posing as the representative of a large eastern brokerage house, agreed to let Ruse "in on the ground floor on something good."

Ruse had already sent east for a large sum of money, the detectives stated, when his three new-found friends were placed under arrest.

In the possession of Masters, Burns and Lenville, the officers reported they found large rolls of fraudulent money, false telegrams and other paraphernalia usually part of the "properties" of confidence men.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Hankies for School
There are very few children who can tell where their handkerchief is when they return from school. Why not buy a yard of cotton material and cut into squares? These can be neatly hemmed or, the sewing machine and used for school. The linen ones will then be available when needed.

How to Do It
Use a smaller flame under aluminum than under iron.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will remove indelible ink marks.

Cover egg yolks with cold water and they will keep for several days.

A little vinegar in the rinsing water will keep black stockings a good color.

Turn the small rugs frequently so that the wear will not always be on the same place.

Can't Miss Them
Before putting the children's woolen dresses and suits into the suds for washing, it is wise to run a basing thread around the badly soiled spots so as not to miss these important places.

One of the most enjoyable of all the social affairs at Cumstock School is the annual academy high jinx, when the sub-debs, unaided by the opposite sex, enjoy an evening of entertainment arranged entirely by themselves. The evening began with a grand march, all the guests being en masque, and the Halloween decorations throughout the drawing rooms and ballroom lent an air of festivity to the occasion, celebrated Friday evening, October 29.

The students, former students and alumnae were the invited guests. The entertainment was under the direction of Miss Ann Coleman, president of the student body and Miss Cornelia Billingslee, president of the senior class. Other committees were in charge of Miss Sylvia Parker and Miss Lila Richmond and Miss Helen Swallow. A series of clever skits was presented and prizes awarded for the best and also prizes for the cleverest costumes. The party was concluded at midnight with a "Ghost walk."

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Hankies for School
There are very few children who can tell where their handkerchief is when they return from school. Why not buy a yard of cotton material and cut into squares? These can be neatly hemmed or, the sewing machine and used for school. The linen ones will then be available when needed.

How to Do It
Use a smaller flame under aluminum than under iron.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will remove indelible ink marks.

Cover egg yolks with cold water and they will keep for several days.

A little vinegar in the rinsing water will keep black stockings a good color.

Turn the small rugs frequently so that the wear will not always be on the same place.

Can't Miss Them
Before putting the children's woolen dresses and suits into the suds for washing, it is wise to run a basing thread around the badly soiled spots so as not to miss these important places.

TUNEFUL AND BRIGHT SHOW
"Castles in Air" Is Merry
Music Production
Tinkling Songs and Clever
Dances Enliven It
Doll Number One of Year's Brightest Novelties

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT
Even so imposing an event as an election, with 'teen dozen amendments to vote on, can't interfere with the present merry round of progress in the show world. Witness "Castles in the Air," which opened brightly, and, on the whole, brightly, last night at El Capitan Theater, and gained the ballots of approval from the most brilliant audiences that has yet assembled for an opening at Hollywood's pioneer playhouse.

The book and the lyrics of "Castles in the Air" are by Raymond W. Peck, and the musical score is by Percy Wenrich, and the names of both are worth remembering. The production is yet another clever achievement for Coast stage production, and is noteworthy in the class, the beauty, and the animation of its ensemble numbers, as well as the satisfying quality of much of the singing.

Really, you'll enjoy it, and don't be discouraged if the first act seems a little slow, for the second one is prodigious of both beauty and entertainment. It is, altogether, one of the most pleasing and the cleanest attractions that have yet been presented in what is already a singularly sparkling season.

"Castles in the Air"—or what have you? Mostly music in this instance—tinkly and seductive tunes that register, and that you'll go out of the theater both humming and whistling. Charming numbers and clever ideas in staging that provide the maximum of enjoyment.

There is an indefinable resemblance in this piece to "The Student Prince" that held magnetic court here some months ago, overshadowing nearly all other attractions. There is a cream-puff kingdom, which is purchased nearly for a song, and the Cinderella motif is turned out more than happily. The entire melodious creation is quite as enchanting as the title.

Hits too are won by several in the company—notably Ray Raymond, in a semi-comedy but essentially a love-making impersonation. There are good voices, possessed by Juanita Wray, Raymond Marlowe and Marie Wells, and the latter, in particular, abundant applause for everybody in the east, and endures so frequent that the final curtain did not fall until the stroke of midnight.

I should mention also that one of the cutest tricks that we have seen on the stage this season is that little girl Wynne Gibson, with her comely, her patter and her dancing, as well as her contrasting figure diversion.

There is volume, too, in the ensemble of voices. It is the fact that chorus that has really shown out in this respect in any of the productions staged here. Indeed, some of the higher climaxes of tone resounded one of "The Student Prince," and had the pitch been always perfect, waves perhaps have scored just as great results with the public. A little training would perhaps give roundness and a fullness of beauty to this ensemble singing, for the voices are undoubtedly there.

One thing that "The Castles in the Air" chorus can do, which "The Student Prince" chorus could not do, and that is dance. The antics, the dancing and the antics of the numbers, have never been swayed here before. There was call after call for the chorus in this specialty after the "I Would Like to Fondle You" song done by Miss Gibson and Mr. Raymond.

The blarney folk costumes of the second act are eye-catching, and it is in the midst of this revel of color that there occurs one of the most adroit novelties that has yet been presented. This is the "Baby" fox trot lullaby, in which skillfully manipulated dolls in the Terpsichorean. Their rhythm and synchronized movement are amazing, and the audience was fascinated by it so much an extent that it looked as if they would never permit the ensemble of girls to leave the stage. Raymond too was at his best in his singing and putting over of his part in this very smart innovation.

Like every new production that has made its bow here this season, "Castles in the Air" as a whole made a shaping up as yet. It ran rather more smoothly than most of the year's offerings at that, and that helps there occurred principally in the initial act. The principals did not blend their efforts with the proper degree of smoothness, and there was a touch of amateurishness also to some of the dialogue between Miss Wray, who is obviously a novice in these scenes, and Mr. Marlowe. In a rather loud suit and tie he looked something less than acceptable, and he was a bit out of place in the presence, but made up for it considerably when he got into the prince's uniform. His voice is of a very even quality if light. The only fault that he evinced was perhaps just a slightly nasal tone, but it is something to find a tenor who knows his limitations and uses his voice with discretion. He appeared to have more power, always in the past, but he actually used it.

Miss Wray sings more than attractively, and her shading was very effective. She sang a decided applause for her rendition both of "Sweetheart of Your Dreams," and also "My Lips, My Love, My Soul," toward the close of the second episode, and a "in with Mr. Marlowe in "Love Rules the World" in the third and final act. Her performance lacked in ease, but then she is something of a newcomer. The impression that she made was all in all distinctly favorable.

Miss Wynne's effective work to the accompaniment of the Latvian Chant—the som'what tragic number already referred to—was one of the flashing moments. Like various other events in the show this was quite original.

Miss Wells's vocal work was often times quite dazzling, although both she and Mr. Miller were handicapped with rather silly material in their "Ha Ha." This is one of the weak spots in an otherwise rather exceptional series of selections.

Guy B. Kline, at the plush-covered butler, was grotesquely amusing, while the lesser done by Arney Gilmore was boisterous and noisy, but remarkably well presented. Alan Lowe, Margaret Bourne and David Preston are among the others, with Jerry Jarrett offering ballet except that was well applauded.

The cast for the most part is one assembled hereabout, and it is a strong proof of excellence in material. Fred

YOUNG OPERA STAR TO GIVE CONCERT
Former Christie Films Player
Has Had Rapid Rise to Metropolitan

Six years ago, in what is now the Philharmonic Auditorium, Fanchon and Marco presented a revue. In that revue was a young lady, beautiful as well as talented, who is returning to sing Thursday evening in the same auditorium as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Within these six years, Mary Lewis has risen to the coveted heights of one of the best prima donnas of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The talented young soprano is much in demand on the Coast as evidenced by the fact that her schedule includes fifty concerts to be given every space moment to December 10, next, when she will return to New York to resume her work with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Miss Mary Lewis is possessed with a charming personality. She was quite enthusiastic when relating the story leading to her engagement with the Metropolitan.

Her first visit to California, was with a traveling vaudeville company, upon arriving in San Francisco, she obtained work with Fanchon and Marco, who later brought her with their company to Los Angeles. It was here, along with three other girls in the Fanchon and Marco company, that she received an offer from Christie to work in pictures.

In 1920 the fortunate young lady journeyed to New York, and was immediately engaged as prima donna with the Zeigfeld Polka. For three years, Miss Lewis was the prima donna in this organization, at the same time devoting every spare moment to furthering the cultivation of her voice and to an intense study of the languages.

An offer from the Opera Company of Monte Carlo found her singing in this organization. Vienna and London also claimed much of her time, and in Paris, France, she secured a contract to play the "Merry Widow" for any length of time and on her own terms. A few weeks' contract in Paris was the result.

"When returning to New York," declares Miss Lewis, "I had no plans as to what I would do, consequently was very happy when, upon one audition in the Metropolitan, I was chosen to sing with this organization."

Miss Lewis made her debut with the opera company last year as Mimi in "La Boheme."

Colored Band Will be Added to Dance Revue

"Struttin' Sam from Alabam" will strut his stuff to the tune of a new orchestra beginning Sunday afternoon at the Majestic, according to announcements from Arthur Hockwald, who reports that he has secured the services of George Bryan's New York orchestra, comprising ten pieces, and some of the latest jazz numbers to come out of the East.

While every member of Bryan's aggregation of musicians is colored, each individual man is an accomplished artist in both classic and syncopated music, Hockwald announces.

Many players who in the past have followed the theatrical activities of Cole and Johnson, William and Walker, the Georgia Minstrels, the "Nashville Student" and many other stars and musical shows, will remain with George Bryan's orchestra. This orchestra will arrive here from New York intact tomorrow afternoon and will go into immediate rehearsal with the entire "Struttin' Sam" company, preparatory to entering the Majestic pit at the matinee Sunday afternoon.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY
Negotiations between William Russell and a prominent producer are now being carried on and definite announcement as to this virtue star's move to come out of the East, will be made within the next few days. Russell recently completed the featured character role in "The Blue Eagle," produced by Fox.

VAUDEVILLE HAS BIRTHDAY
One hundred years ago vaudeville came into being.
To be exact on December 3, 1826, the first vaudeville show, then called "variety," was presented. Prior to that time offerings of a sort had been presented between the acts of dramatic offerings but the present form of vaudeville entertainment made its appearance on that date. Its modest birthplace was the musical little Lafayette Theater, located on Canal street near Laurens in New York City.

From that modest showplace vaudeville has grown into the most beautiful theaters in the world and its 100 years of life have been remarkable growth and development.

The far-flung Orpheum Circuit, extending from Chicago to Los Angeles and from New Orleans to Vancouver, is celebrating its birthday on the Keith-Albee Circuit in the East, has announced plans for a gala celebration of the vaudeville centennial year.

Los Angeles, as well as every other city wherein is located an Orpheum Theater, will be in an effort to make the centennial year the greatest in all of the 100.

A number of special weeks at both the Orpheum and Hillstreet will be one of the features of the year. The first of these will be in December starting just 100 years from the birthday of vaudeville.

Cowlick—the name has nothing to do with it—merits immense credit for his staging of the numbers. Some of them quite tough those of Louis Ceballos, Dave Bennett and others who have been responsible for the gay atmosphere of musical productions in the past year or so. Harold Lavery also proved an efficient director. The book was directed by Frank Reicher.

"Castles in the Air" has the hit quality.

LOUIS GRAVEURE
CHARMS AUDIENCE
Excellent Concert by Famous Baritone Marks Opening of Artist Course

A house crowded with enthusiastic listeners greeted the eminent baritone, Louis Graveure, last night at the opening concert of the Bohymer Tuesday-evening artist series. Mr. Graveure's excellent performance will without doubt, mark the concert as an outstanding event in this series.

Graveure is possessed with the rare faculty of a faultless interpretation of his numbers. He is an actor as well as a singer and his glorious voice, combined with his mastery of gesture and pantomime, conveys a definite story to the audience regardless of the tongue in which he sings.

His voice rang through the auditorium in all of its full and mellow richness. The low tones were deep and resonant, the high tones as clear and finely drawn as the note of some exquisitely tempered instrument.

Mr. Graveure divided his program into four groups. The first consisted of German songs, the second of Old English compositions, the third of French and the fourth of English and American. Each group Mr. Graveure seemed to infuse with the very soul of the nation whose works he was interpreting and each song seemed to carry a message that was sent straight from the heart of the singer.

The program was well chosen and well rendered in every detail, and the excellent work of Mr. Graveure more than merited the splendid ovation that greeted it.

Assisting the baritone at the piano was Mr. Bryson Trehan. A companion of Mr. Trehan's, "Little Lady of My Heart," was sung by Mr. Graveure as an encore and was well received by the audience. Mr. Trehan's splendid group of piano numbers was also excellently rendered and an encore to his group was necessary.

The next artist appearing on the series will be Amelia Galli-Curci, singing at the Auditorium the 16th inst.

LOCAL DANCERS IN DE HAVEN REVUE
A number of dancers who received their terpsichorean training under Ernest Belcher, are among the shining important roles in Carter De Haven's Fancies at the Music Box Theater, in Hollywood. Each group Mr. Graveure seemed to infuse with the very soul of the nation whose works he was interpreting and each song seemed to carry a message that was sent straight from the heart of the singer.

Among those in various numbers are Edna Harron, Valia Karels, Myra Hubert, Eva Loubens and Teresa Allen. Producer De Haven in co-operation with Belcher, personally made the selection of these artists for the new musical revue.

UNDERTAKE GREAT PROGRAM
With the arrival of Carl Laemmle, Supervising Director of Comedies, Scott Darling will begin preparations for an extensive production schedule of Universal mirth-provokers. Pending word from the organization's chief executives, Darling is preparing a story based on Universal's slogan, "It Can Be Done."

Larsen died in the prison ward of General Hospital. He was shot the night of October 23 as he was escaping from the rear door of the Los Angeles Testing Laboratory, 1300 South Los Angeles street.

Fund Soliciting Fraud Charged in Man's Arrest

Joe Harrington, 60 years of age, of 616 West One Hundred and Sixth street, who says he is a minister, was arrested yesterday on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, according to police. Harrington is said to have solicited funds as the "grandpa" of a local radio station, saying they were to be used for Sunday-school classes maintained by the station.

Officials of the station, police said, declared they have no Sunday-school classes. Police said Harrington had a list of several hundred names with amounts after them, apparently representing donations.

ACTRESS DENIES TROTH TO EDITOR

Pauline Starke

Pauline Starke hasn't offered to be "sister" to Donald Freeman; neither is she engaged to him.

This was revealed yesterday with the arrival in Los Angeles of the fair Pauline who a few days ago was reported by the eastern press to be engaged to Donald Freeman, acting managing editor of Vanity Fair.

The actress isn't wearing the "huge diamond solitaire," as reported and even readily admitted that Mr. Freeman hasn't proposed, so it isn't up to her to accept or reject.

Jail Prisoners Serve Meal to Criminologists

A score of students of criminology last night were served dinner by thirteen trustees from the City Jail acting under the direction of Jailer John Ehand. The occasion was the meeting of the Southern California Academy of Criminology at the University of California, Southern Branch.

Dr. Van Norman Emery, director of the Child Guidance Clinic, spoke on "Adult Education and Child Control as a Factor in Crime Prevention." Criminals, he said, all are mentally defective, or they would not be criminals. It is more important, he said, to train the child to be good in the beginning than to attempt to force the adult to be good after a criminal career is started.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GROWING AUTHORS
Do not despair if at first you meet with failure. Remember that there is no royal road to literature. Here are some facts that will serve to hearten you in your work:

Bernard Shaw, before he wrote six weeks before he made his first ten thousand pounds.

Before Rudyard Kipling bought his first steam yacht, he was paid only 80 cents a word for his stories.

"I took me two whole years," said Frank A. Munsey, "before I could save up enough to buy a paper that would print my stuff."

"I had to wait for nearly four weeks before I could get my first story," said the first $10,000 for one of my short stories was sent to me. Fortunately, we were well supplied with canned vegetables."

Mary Roberts Rinehart at first refused to speak of her early struggles, while the tears coursed down her cheeks. All that she could murmur was: "It's the first fifty thousand and the hardest."—[T. L. M. in Kansas City Star.]

Returning Californian Says People of Nation Turning Westward for Homes

Touring by automobile thirty-three states and covering 25,000 miles have convinced Lee B. Mettler of the Mettler company, that all parts of the South and Southwest are sincerely sold on Southern California.

While in Washington, D. C., Mr. Mettler presented to the national archives a carriage jack that had been made for George Washington and which has been in the Mettler family since the days of the Revolution.

CREATE DEMAND FOR PRODUCTS

A PHASE OF AMERICAN SELLING METHODS IMPRESSES FRENCH VISITOR

The American producer never waits for a prospective customer to discover that he needs something—he goes out and persuades the customer that he absolutely must have the article in question, although the latter was previously unaware that this thing existed.

They go even further than this in America. They actually create needs, physical as well as psychological. In order to extend sales, standard initial installations are put in at an extremely low price, and even free. I learned of such cases as the following:

A representative of an electric company goes to a gentleman who thinks his house is well lighted and asks permission to improve the lighting of the kitchen. This done so as to triple the illumination. A few days later the lady of the house discovers that all the rest of her residence is inadequately lighted. She finds that she cannot get along without extending the better system from the kitchen to the entire establishment.

By such devices as these the American consumer is persuaded that he needs at least three times as many things as a French consumer. When I returned from the United States I discovered that you cannot see clearly after dark anywhere in France.—[A. de Teout in La Revue Politique et Parlementaire, Paris. (Living Age).]

MAGPIES MENACE TO SHEEP
Magpies again have become a real menace to sheep and cattle on the Little Bow River, north of Bow Island. Last summer scores of magpies' nests with the eggs were destroyed, but they are numerous again. The birds are pecking the herds of sheep and are said to be again threatening cattle. Last fall ranchers had to keep their cattle under cover to protect them from these voracious pests. A few died as a result of mutilation by the magpies.—[Vancouver Province.]

The time to create a "Living Trust" is during your days of Prosperity and Plenty

... Statistics prove that few people who have money are able to keep it throughout their lifetimes.

... If you could foretell the future the chances are you would lose no time in establishing a "Living Trust."

... If a portion of your belongings were placed in a trust of this type for the benefit of your family there would be no possibility of loss. Should everything else you possess be suddenly wiped out, the income from the living trust would sustain your family in comfort.

... There is no obligation attached to discussing the matter with our Trust Officers. The interview will be held in strict confidence.

BOOST IN CARGO RATE FORECAST

Increase to European Ports Reported Pending Demand for Vessels in Coal Trade Responsible

Canned Goods Unchanged from Old Schedule

Steamship freight rates from the Pacific Coast to the United Kingdom and European ports are scheduled for a general but slight rise on almost everything but canned goods in the near future, according to shippers whose information reporters have been given.

The rates are regarded as just another of the far-reaching effects of the coal strike in England, which has disturbed routes of commerce all over the world and reacted on Los Angeles Harbor in other ways, including increased dispatch of petroleum products to the British Isles to substitute for coal.

Last week almost a score of freighters were withdrawn from intercoastal trade to carry coal across the Atlantic, causing the switching of several cargoes to other vessels in Los Angeles. Many of the grain carriers have been diverted and the shipping schedule is being put for bottom, affecting 60 or more with prospects the price will go to 60c before owners charter out their ships.

South American countries recently have been unable to secure the coal they need because of the diversion to Europe and the Pacific Northwest now is attempting to fill the needs, although calls for Los Angeles petroleum also are increasing. In the face of the latter, tankers have been taken of the Los Angeles-South American run to carry gasoline to London, and many a tanker captain departs here not knowing but what his destination will be changed to another part of the world because of the fuel disturbance.

A sluggish body slows down the leaping mind

A clear mind is conditioned on regular clearance of the body. Delay or irregularity in the clearance of residual waste burdens the system with poisons which the bloodstream absorbs and carries to every organ of the body. Little ills, big ills, ills of the mind and even of the imagination often can be traced to intestinal inactivity. A half glass of water sparkling with a dash of ENO will beneficially influence the removal of poisonous waste from the alimentary canal. ENO contains nothing drastic nor of uncertain value, and no sugar.

Farragut's Fleet Assembles.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

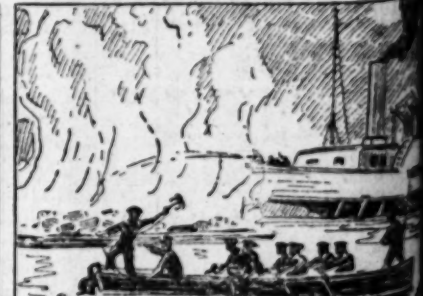

ON FEB. 20, 1862, FARRAGUT ARRIVED AT SHIP ISLAND (OFF BILOXI, MISS.), WHICH WAS TO SERVE AS A BASE OF OPERATIONS FOR THE UNION NAVAL AND MILITARY EXPEDITION AGAINST NEW ORLEANS. FARRAGUT CALLED THE SHIPS OF THE BLOCKADING FLEET TOGETHER AND ON MARCH 7TH REACHED PASS A L'OUTRE, ONE OF THE MOUTHS OF THE MISSISSIPPI, WITH THE "HARTFORD" AND "F. NBACOLA."

AFTER A LONG DELAY IN GETTING THE LARGER SHIPS ACROSS THE BAR AT THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER, THE FLEET ASSEMBLED AT THE HEAD OF THE PASSES. FARRAGUT HAD ABOUT 48 SHIPS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, NOT INCLUDING THE TRANSPORTS BEARING 9,000 SOLDIERS UNDER GEN. BUTLER.

IN APRIL, THE TWENTY MORTAR SCHOONERS OF COMMANDER PORTER'S DIVISION, WHICH HAD PRECEDED THE FLEET OVER THE BAR, WERE TOWED UP THE RIVER AND PLACED IN POSITION WITHIN RANGE OF FORT JACKSON. SMALL STEAMERS WERE SENT AHEAD TO MAKE OBSERVATIONS AND SOUNDINGS AND WERE FIRED ON BY CONFEDERATE SHARPSHOOTERS ALONG THE SHORE.

ON THE NIGHT OF APRIL 17TH, THE CONFEDERATES SENT BLAZING FIRE RAFTS FLOATING DOWNSTREAM IN THE HOPE OF BURNING THE FEDERAL FLEET. THIS DANGER WAS AVERTED BY QUICK ACTION ON THE PART OF BOAT CREWS FROM THE WARSHIPS AND THE FLAMING RAFTS WERE TOWED HARMLESSLY ASIDE.

Fay Durst Delights With Lyric Beauty

Long List of Artists Add to Entertainment

BY MAE TRICE BROOKS
Variety marked the broadcast last evening. The early part of the evening was had as a guest, J. Walter Leopold, composer, who gave a program of his own compositions, singing them himself. He is perhaps best known by his song, "Is It a Girl?" Last evening he gave several of his new compositions and his program included: "That's the Life of a Sailor, That's the Life for Me," "The Perfume of a Rose," "My Pal and Me," and "Why Are You Break-My Heart?"

It was our pleasure to have Fay Durst with us again last evening. Her lovely voice is making for her many friends in radioland. She chose to do the lighter numbers on her program last night. "Just One Kiss," "Carolina Sunshine," "Memory Lane" and "Indian Love Call" from "The Music Man" were among her selections.

Harry James Beardsley, baritone, sang the ballads which he does so well. He is always an addition to any program and his friends welcome him enthusiastically.

FASTER REPORTS

Miss Eunice McMullin came up to broadcast the progress of her fast. Her weight is now down to 166. She is feeling better in the last few days than at any time. She went yesterday morning to cast her vote and came back feeling fine. The doctors feel that her fast should be broken as her blood pressure is below normal, but Miss McMullin is not willing to do this, so she has released them from all responsibility and will go on for a time at least. Yesterday was the thirtieth day of her experiment, during which time her weight has gone down from 188 to 166.

A very splendid address was given by McClelland Reed on "Co-operation." Mr. Reed is a lecturer of some prominence and he always has something interesting to say to his audience.

The All-Times section of the program was given by several members of the Times organization, and proved that we have some talent of worth-while variety.

The beautiful baritone of Salvador Bagues is one of those rare natural voices. It is rich in quality, and while Mr. Bagues has done but little study, he sings with ease and understanding. He sang some of the lovely songs of Mexico and the Argentine. All of his songs were sung in Spanish, and were so beautiful.

READS OWN POEMS

Endor Shaw, who recently had a very good part in the Occidental College production of "Midsummer Night's Dream," read some of his own poems. Here is another very gifted young man. His verses show the real spirit of the poet, and it is to be expected.

Current Events on This Evening

It is hoped that this gift will be developed. Among his original readings were "An Old Friend," "Love" and
"The Road." The program was delivered by several members of the organization, and the program was very interesting.

Queen Titania and her Sandman arrived at the studio promptly at 7 o'clock last evening for the 164th consecutive Tuesday visit of the "Radio Fairies" to KHI. This was the official welcome home to Uncle John from his trip to Honolulu, although the Fairies Queen did slip into the studio for a few moments last Saturday night to greet her beloved "Voice of KHI."

Uncle John discovered that last evening was election night in Fairland, as well as upon the earth, and he expressed a desire to learn the results of the election in the Land of Ought-to-be. Quickly, on the Wings of Thought, the Radio Fairies journeyed to the wondrous country of Ought-to-be. There, upon a great white screen set up in the courtyard of the Queen's palace, the returns were flashed. Among other things, it was learned that Love was re-elected to rule all creation, and that the Fairies Kindness, Happiness and Joy were to continue in office as a board of directors to supervise all the activities of Radio KHI.

Inasmuch as returns on the earth election were constantly coming to the studio, the visit to Fairland was cut short so that Uncle John could return to KHI to broadcast these returns to radioland.

Charles D. McRoy's Harmonies
Band of seven instruments made a great hit with their playing. It is quite a novelty and very interesting.
The radiant personality of Ida
Palmer shines through her cleverly done songs. She is a very rarely gifted vocalist, and it will be surprising if she does not do something for the radio.

RAIL CROSSING RIGHTS TOLD

Officer in KHI Talk Declares
Automobile is Trespasser on Own Responsibility

Pointing out that "an infant has as much chance under the wheels of a steam roller as an automobile has in front of a locomotive," Sgt. E. L. Johnson of the police bureau of safety yesterday hung out the "op, Look and Listen" sign in his accident-prevention talk over KHI.

"The law gives all the rights at a grade crossing," the officer emphasized. "The automobile is a trespasser upon the tracks with no rights whatever.
The motorist must enter on a grade crossing takes upon himself the whole responsibility for any disaster. The engineer of the locomotive is a responsible only to his passengers."

"The best rule in the world for the motorist is to stop, look and listen. And if there is any signal by which he can determine whether a train is approaching he should wait until that train has passed."

WORK BEGUN ON CLUB AND TWO HOTELS

Three Projects Involve
Expenditures of More Than Half-Million Dollars

Involving in excess of $500,000, progress on three major projects was announced yesterday. Ground has been broken at the northeast corner of Santa Barbara avenue and Figueroa street for a new five-story, Class B hotel and store structure. According to John P. Kuhns, contractor, the building will cost approximately $180,- 000.

The hotel will be of brick and steel construction. There will be 104 rooms above. The lower floor will be divided into seven stores. The project is owned and fostered by the Zobele Company, C. Deuel drew the plans.

Orville Clark, architect, has been commissioned to design a $200,000 beach club projected for Venice, according to an announcement from his office. The structure is planned for the old Sunset Pier site at Center street for the Los Angeles Surf Club. It will contain a gymnasium, swimming pool, and regular club quarters, Mr. Clark said.

A site 60x125 feet has been selected on Normandie avenue between Seventh and eighth streets for a new five-story, $125,000 hotel. I. W. Parker has commissioned Architect W.
Eastman Smith to prepare plans for the hotel. It will be finished in stucco exterior with cast stone trim, Mr. Smith said.

THURSDAY MORNING

MINERS IN
MUD TRAPFifty-three Men

Michigan Shaft Catching

Iron Company Reported
as Among Victims

ESPEY (Mich.) Nov. 3. (AP)—Fifty-three miners are believed to have lost their lives when the bottom of a swamp under which the Barnes-Hooper iron mine near here today had been extended, dropped into shaft today. Deepened by recent heavy rains the bottom of the swamp gave way and a section 300 feet long and 200 feet wide fell into the mine, trapping the men at work.

The cause of slough is believed to have caught most of the men on the first and third levels.

A check by officials of the mine tonight revealed that fifty-three were on duty at the time of the disaster, all of whom are believed to have lost their lives. Seven bodies were taken from the mine tonight.

W. E. Hill, a State mining inspector and William Tippet, an official of the mining company, were among those trapped. They were inspecting the shaft at the time of the disaster.

TERRIFIC THUD HEARD

The disaster occurred shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. Persons reported hearing a terrific thud as the huge section of mud and water dropped to the pit. Rushing to the gaping mudhole, they reported seeing the flood swirl about the first level 125 feet and then force itself through the outlets to the next level. As the lower reaches were flooded the mud soon again to the top level and by the seepage from the surrounding district tonight had flooded the entire mine as well as an adjoining shaft to which there was an outlet from the Barnes-Hooper shaft.

Hope was held for a while that the men may have been able to reach this adjoining shaft through the outlet, but as the mud and water poured through this tunnel and flooded the shaft, what was believed to be the last chance of escape was cut off.

The Barnes-Hooper mine is 125 feet deep and has three levels. The swamp bottom, dropped into the first level and slowly forced its way from one level to the next.

MANY STILL HOPE

Hundreds of persons were gathered about the mouth of the shaft tonight. In the groups were wives, children and relatives of the trapped men, some of whom refused to give up hope that in some miraculous way their loved ones had escaped death.

A score of mine-rescue teams responded to first calls for aid from near-by cities in the iron-mining region, but were powerless to be of any assistance. The mud-flooded shaft was impossible of penetration two hours after the cave-in occurred. A few persons on the mine surface.

Do you Lead or Follow other Women?

HAS one word from some other woman ever made you want to crawl down into a deep hole and pull the entrance in after you?

When it comes to social leadership, women are ruthless fighters. They fight with words that have a keener edge than any knife.

Do You Dare to be a Leader?

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself this question? Do you really know the answer?

If you are a leader among women, the world will give you admiration, homage and that unconscious imitation that is the sincerest flattery.

If you are content to follow, the world will never find fault with you. It will merely ignore you. It will quietly class you among the many good, but uninteresting women who somehow fail to arrive.

Are you a successful woman? Not every woman has the courage to ask herself this question. It's too easy to dodge the answer. If your husband isn't successful in business, you and he and all the world soon know it. But many a woman is a pitiful failure on her job—and never even suspects it! Until, too late, her husband learns what she lacks in the light of some other woman's charm.

For a man's success is usually measured in money. But a woman's success is more subtle and varied. Looks, clothes, social distinction, decorative sense, training of children, ability to manage a home.

And last but by no means least, that elusive but all important quality that for lack of a better word we will call feminine charm.

Just Ask Yourself These Questions

How do you measure up to your job? Are you the sort of woman you'd like your daughter to be? Is your home a place where your husband comes when he has nowhere else to go?

Are you an asset or a liability socially? Are you always disappointed in the clothes you buy? Is your conversation limited to recipes and the baby's formula? Do you use labor-saving household devices? Is your family happy—and are you? Have you stopped caring about your looks and clothes?

Ah, there's the whole story in that one last question. No woman is lost as long as she cares!
